ALLIES BLAST
COLOGNE AREA
IN NIGHT RAIDRECORD 1,400 U. S.
BOMBERS BACK
UP INVASIONBY AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, Tuesday, June 13 (AP)—Cologne was reported by DNB today to have been bombed just before midnight in an after-dark sequel to daylight invasion attacks Monday in which Allied air fleets flew up to 10,000 sorties against German holdings in France.

Many Nazi-controlled radio stations in France and Germany shut down, suggesting widespread activity by the RAF.

A record 1,400 U. S. heavy bombers participated in the daylight attacks, which met rising German air force resistance. Sixteen enemy aircraft and six bridges were among the targets.

Airfields Scoured
The heavyweights, in the greatest force ever sent on a single mission, lost seven planes to flak while their fighter escort shot 17 of the enemy from the sky at a cost of 14 fighters.

The supreme command threw every class of bomber and fighter into close support of the expanding Normandy beachhead, and the Germans, putting up their stiffest opposition since the channel crossing, were unable to check this whirlwind of Allied aerial might.

U. S. Fortresses and Liberators scored air fields from St. Nazaire to Lyon to which the Germans had been shuttling their lean air force, and one pilot declared that "every airfield within a radius of 50 miles of our target seemed to be under attack."

Other heavyweights, such as explosives on six bridges and other installations, while clouds of lighter bombers, fighter-bombers and fighters filled the skies over Northern France, some engaging in dog-fights with as many as 20 enemy planes.

Attackers Fly Low
Air fields pounded were at Lille-Nord, Montdidier, Evreux-Fauville, Dreux, Vitry-en-Artois and Bauvais-Tille, all landing fields the Germans need for any sort of serious defense against the Allies.

It was the second straight day the Eighth Air Force sent large forces of heavies to the support of Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's advancing armies and followed a night attack on four rail bottlenecks behind the battle zone by RAF bombers, out in force over the continent for the seventh straight night.

Marauders and Hawes of the Ninth Air Force hit road and rail junctions at Annay Sur Odon, southwest of Caen, Conde Sur Noireau, south of there, and La Haye De Puits west of Arentan, some flying so low a gunner said "you could pick out German Lieutenants from sergeants and shoot the Lieutenants." All planes returned.

Fighters and fighter-bombers of both American and British sections of the Allied Expeditionary Air Force plastered many of Field Marshal Gen. Karl Rudolf Gerd Von Rundstedt's installations with bombs, rockets and bullets.

Troops In Panic
Supreme headquarters said at least six of 50 German planes seen over the battle area had been

Chinese Hard-Pressed;
War Going Badly For
Japs In Other SectorsBY RAY CROIN
Associated Press War Editor
The Pacific-Asiatic war thundered to higher tempo yesterday (Monday) with chief interest centering on fierce battling in China that may decide the fate of the entire eastern section of that country.

As heroic Chinese forces resisted furiously at besieged Changsha, strategic railway town in Hunan province, the Japanese invaders launched a new drive northward from the Canton sector in an apparent effort to build a "west wall" against the Allies.

In virtually all other regions of the vast Pacific-Oriental war theater the Japanese were faring badly.

COURT CONVICTS
DRAFT EVADERSHoughton Bank Teller
Sentenced To Prison
For Embezzlement

Marquette, June 13 (AP)—John Harvard Wilson of Iron River was convicted in U. S. district court here today on a charge of having failed to report on December 8, 1942, for induction into the army.

Wilson's defense was that as a "minister of religion," the title accruing to him as a member of an organization known as "Jehovah's Witnesses," he was exempt from draft regulations. He was defended by William R. McCree of Detroit, state counsel for that organization.

Wilson waived a jury trial; the case being heard by Judge Raymond. Sentence will be passed in Grand Rapids June 22.

Theodore Frank Anderson, 29, of Iron River, one of two brothers who for some time have been fugitives on charges of refusing to register for the draft, was sentenced to three years and nine months in a federal prison following conviction here two days ago.

Howard Lean, former Houghton bank teller, was sentenced to one year and one month in a federal penitentiary, plus three years of probation, upon conviction on two charges, one of embezzlement and the other of making false entries in books.

The citizenship of Erick Gunnar Jacobson, former resident of Norway, Mich., and now in Sweden, was revoked by the court on grounds of continued absence from the country.

With the sentences today, the criminal calendar for the June session was concluded.

MURDER JURY PICKED

Detroit, June 12 (AP)—A jury of 12 women and two men was completed in Circuit Judge William Friedman's court today as the murder trial of Richard Vincent 23-year-old gasoline station attendant charged with the killing of Joyce Ranslow, 14, got under way.

The girl's beaten and stabbed body was found on a west side city dump on March 29.

President Thinks
Japs Are Doomed,
Germany Trapped

Washington, June 12 (AP)—President Roosevelt said tonight we can force the Japanese "to unconditional surrender or to national suicide much more rapidly than has been thought possible."

The president, speaking on a national radio program opening the $16,000,000,000 Fifth War Loan Drive, said our original strategy of eliminating Germany first and then turning our full war strength into the Pacific can hasten the day of our victory on all fronts.

Germany, he said, is "first on the list for destruction," and added:

"Germany has her back against the wall—in fact three walls at once."

"On the south—we have broken the German hold on central Italy * * * On the east—our gallant Soviet allies have driven the enemy back from the lands which were invaded three years ago. Great Soviet armies are now initiating crushing blows."

"Over head—vast Allied air fleets of bombers and fighters have been waging a bitter air war over Germany and western Europe. They have had two major objectives: To destroy German war industries which maintain the German armies and air forces; and to shoot the German Luftwaffe out of the air. As a result German production has been whittled continuously and the German fighter force now has only a fraction of its former power."

"This great air campaign, strategic and tactical, will continue with increasing power."

"On the west—the hammer blow which struck the coast of France last Tuesday morning was the culmination of many months of careful planning and strenuous preparation."

DEMOCRATS HIT
SNAG IN TEXASFourth Term Issue May
Cause Court Battle
Over Party Split(By The Associated Press)
A court battle over the fourth term issue was shaping up today (Tuesday) as a result of an intra-party split among Texas Democrats.

The Texas Democratic executive committee, meeting yesterday at Dallas, voted 27 to 6 against certifying a slate of pro-Roosevelt presidential electors for printing on the July primary ballot.

The slate was advanced by a faction that broke away from the party's state convention after being twice outvoted by anti-administration elements.

The convention then went ahead and named its own group of 23 electors and instructed them not to support the party's presidential nominee unless the two-thirds nominating rule is restored at the national convention and other conditions are met.

Chairman George Butler of the executive committee, contended this group of electors was selected by a "perfectly regular convention," and unless yesterday's action is upset in the courts it will be the only slate appearing on the general election ballot.

FISH PRICES CUT

Washington, June 12 (AP)—Changes in the price ceiling regulation on fresh fish and seafood which the office of price administration said will cause drop of from one to three cents a pound in the cost to housewives were announced tonight.

Soviets Head
FOR HELSINKI
IN NEW DRIVEFINNS STUNNED BY CANNONADING ON
KARELIA FRONTBY RUSSELL LANDSTROM
London, June 12 (AP)—Russian tanks and picked troops struck through breaches in the rebuilt Mannerheim Line today in a drive toward the big Finnish port of Viipuri—less than 45 miles away from advanced spearheads—with the capital of Helsinki itself as the ultimate goal.

Churning up the Karelian Isthmus ravaged by the 1939-40 Russo-Finnish war, Russian artillery, bombs and guns of the Baltic fleet cracked the defenses along a 25-mile front and stunned the Finns with a cannonading which echoed through Leningrad, more than 25 miles away.

Rail Centers Seized
Dispatches from Moscow said the Red army had seized several large railroad centers beyond the 1938 Russo-Finnish border and that Finnish casualties, heavy from the start, were increasing.

They pictured the Finns as dazed by the suddenness and weight of the attack and as ill-prepared for threats of big-scale landings behind their lines under cover of the Soviet Baltic fleet.

More enemy positions were being rolled up hourly as the Russians under Col. Gen. Leonid Govorov, liberator of Leningrad, struck repeatedly in the virtually constant daylight of the northern summer.

The newspaper Pravda declared the breakthrough was "great and significant" and that "now the

ENEMY CRUSHED
ON BIAK ISLANDAmericans Move Forward
From Captured Jap
Mokmer Airfield

Advanced Allied Headquarters, New Guinea, Tuesday, June 13 (AP)—Japanese are being cleaned from their strong positions on Biak Island west of Mokmer airstrip, headquarters announced today.

American infantry troops were advancing westward from captured Mokmer drome Sunday against enemy machinegun fire coming from bunkers.

Headquarters also disclosed that Palau and Truk again were bombed Saturday night. Palau's airstrip was hit and installations on Truk were attacked by planes from southwest Pacific bases.

Truk and Palau are 1,000 miles apart in the Caroline Island group.

At Sarmi in Dutch New Guinea, patrols reported 172 more enemy dead Sunday and 223 more at Hollandia.

Sarmi is on the New Guinea mainland opposite Wakde island, an Allied airbase from which the Palau strike may have been launched.

ON THE NORMANDY BEACHHEAD (by wireless)—It will be several days before military security permits us to describe in much detail the landing just made in the long-awaited Allied invasion of Europe.

Indeed it will be some time before we have a really clear picture of what has happened or what is happening at the moment. You must experience the terrible confusion of warfare and the frantic, night-march thunder and smoke and bedlam of battle to realize this.

So we will take up this short interval by telling you how things led up to the invasion from the

Nazi Cherbourg
Line Is BrokenBY WES GALLAGHER
Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, Tuesday, June 13. (AP)—American tanks and infantry smashed through the center of the German line in Normandy yesterday, capturing the Cerisy Forest 18 miles inland from the sea, toppling the stronghold of Carentan after a bitter fight, and battling Nazi forces only 14 miles from the prize port of Cherbourg.

Headquarters said that Field Marshal Gen. Erwin Rommel was using from 14 to 15 divisions, 250,000 German troops, against the Allied forces, but Communiqué No. 14 declared: "The fusion of our beachheads is now complete and a coastal strip some 60 miles long is firmly in our hands. Its depth is being increased steadily."

Over 10,000 Prisoners
A later official statement also said:

"The enemy has been unable to build up his attacking forces as rapidly as anticipated."

At the end of the first week of invasion fighting the Allies have taken more than 10,000 prisoners, a statement said. Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, Allied ground commander, said some regular Japanese soldiers were among the captives and the Axis slain, but did not explain their presence on the front.

The seizure of Cerisy Forest put American troops near the mid-Normandy communications hub of St. Lo, and was the deepest inland penetration yet scored by the Allies.

Slight advances were made east of Caen on the British-Canadian sector on the American left flank, headquarters said, and "American troops in the Cherbourg peninsula have made further progress to the north and west" in their effort to seal off an 800-square-mile area

LANSING GRAFT
TRIAL STARTEDPicking Jury Long Job;
Conspiracy Charge
Dismissal Denied

Mason, Mich., June 12 (AP)—Selection of a jury for trial of 23 defendants charged with conspiracy to corrupt the 1939 Michigan legislature started in the Ingham county circuit court today, with indications it would be a long and painstaking task.

Thirteen of 14 jurors had been selected tentatively when court adjourned for the day, but there was a constant change of faces in the jury box as the defense and prosecution exercised peremptory challenges, or members were excused for cause.

Opposing counsel said they hoped a jury would be completed by late tomorrow, but gave no assurance this was likely. Each side may use 115 peremptory challenges to eliminate unwanted jurors. The defense so far has used 15, the prosecution seven.

Judge John Simpson, trial judge, overruled a defense motion for dismissal of the conspiracy charge against five of the defendants, accused of paying bribes to the other 18 who are past and present members of the legislature. The case opened this morning. The court announced it found no merit in the defense contentions that evidence produced in preliminary examination had been insufficient to justify holding them for trial.

GERMAN 14TH
ARMY BROKEN
UP IN FLIGHTBRITISH - AMERICAN
FORCES 71 MILES
BEYOND ROME

BY LYNN HEINZLERING

Rome, June 12 (AP)—The German 14th army has been "dispersed to the four winds," Allied headquarters declared today as Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's American and British forces, pursuing the disorganized Germans up the Italian west coast, approached Orbetello, 71 miles northwest of Rome.

As depleted enemy units fell back toward the Florence area with the greater part of their equipment lost, the Nazi high command faced the immediate necessity of sending heavy reinforcements from France or elsewhere in Europe if any real attempt was to be made to hold northern Italy.

"It is now quite clear," the Allied announcement said, "that the original 14th army * * * has been dispersed to the four winds. All that remains is a few scattered remnants who mainly are engaged in stealing one another's transport to get away as fast as possible. Prisoners describe the situation as wholly chaotic."

The German commander, Field Marshal Albert Kesselring, not only has been forced to throw all but one of the 24 divisions he had in Italy into a desperate effort to slow the Allied steamroller, but has brought in three fresh infantry divisions. It was disclosed today.

What is left of the Nazi 10th army, which once struck hammer blows at Allied troops clinging to the Anzio beachhead, appears to have been put on a every-man-for-himself basis in the flight toward Florence.

Across the breadth of Italy the Allied Fifth and Eighth armies pressed grimly forward, meeting organized resistance only where the Nazis badly needed time to extricate their troops. The countryside was littered with abandoned enemy equipment.

Headquarters disclosed that the Sixth South African armored division participated in the Eighth army's drive up the Liri and Sacco valleys to Rome and that it now is fighting more than 50 miles north of the capital.

Supply Lines Stretched
The South Africans, who played a prominent part in the desert warfare in North Africa, entered the fighting near Cassino with zest. Only two days ago they broke into a German position held by two battalions, killing about 200, capturing a like number and adding new stores of enemy equipment to the Eighth army's collection.

While the Allied advance continues relentlessly, it is recognized that the Allied lines of supply are becoming daily more extended. In future fighting much will depend on the speed with which Allied engineers can repair dynamited bridges and roads and put the

CHURCHILL GOES

Battle Zone

BY RICHARD KASISCHKE

Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force, June 12 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill set foot on French soil for the first time since 1940 today and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, commander in chief of the Allied invasion forces, led a party of top U. S. military and naval commanders on a tour of the American-held section of the Normandy battlefront.

Britain's prime minister was accompanied by Field Marshal Jan Christian Smuts, premier of South Africa, and Gen. Sir Alan Brooke, chief of the Imperial general staff.

In general Eisenhower's party were Gen. George C. Marshall, U. S. army chief of staff; Gen. Henry H. Arnold, American air chief; Admiral Ernest King, commander in chief of the U. S. fleet; Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley, commander of the American Ground Forces in France; and Rear Admirals Alan G. Kirk and John Leslie Hall, commanders of naval task forces in the invasion.

On his visit today Churchill followed liberating armies. Four years ago he made a dramatic flight to a France collapsing under blows of a victorious German army to plead with French leaders to carry on the fight.

War Cost To U. S. A.
200 Billion So Far,
Morgenthau Reveals

War Bond Drive Texarkana, U. S. A., June 12 (AP)—The United States has spent $200,000,000,000 on the war so far and before the year is out another $95,000,000,000 will be spent, Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., said here tonight to officially open the Fifth War Loan Drive.

"General Morgenthau told me last Wednesday before he left for England that our war expenditure for the last three months of this year will be the highest yet and that we've just started," the treasury head said in a script prepared for delivery on a four-network broadcast that opened the campaign for $16,000,000,000.

"To march from Naples to Rome cost $6,700,000,000. I leave it to you to imagine what it will cost to march from Rome to Berlin."

"The cost of taking the Marshall Islands was $8,000,000,000. I leave it to you to imagine what it will cost us to go from the Marshall Islands to Tokyo."

ALLIES BLAST
COLOGNE AREA
IN NIGHT RAIDRECORD 1,400 U. S.
BOMBERS BACK UP INVASION

BY AUSTIN BEALMEAR

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, Tuesday, June 13 (AP)—Cologne was reported by DNB today to have been bombed just before midnight in an after-dark sequel to daylight invasion attacks Monday in which Allied air fleets flew up to 10,000 sorties against German holdings in France.

Many Nazi-controlled radio stations in France and Germany shut down, suggesting widespread activity by the RAF.

A record 1,400 U. S. heavy bombers participated in the daylight attacks, which met rising German air force resistance. Sixteen enemy aircraft and six bridges were among the targets.

Airfields Scoured
The heavyweights, in the greatest force ever sent on a single mission, lost seven planes to flak while their fighter escort shot 17 of the enemy from the sky at a cost of 14 fighters.

The supreme command threw every class of bomber and fighter into close support of the expanding Normandy beachhead, and the Germans, putting up their stiffest opposition since the channel crossing, were unable to check this whirlwind of Allied aerial might.

U. S. Fortresses and Liberators scored air fields from St. Nazaire to Lyon to which the Germans had been shuttling their lean air force, and one pilot declared that "every airfield within a radius of 50 miles of our target seemed to be under attack."

Other heavyweights, in the form of six bombers and other installations, while clouds of fighter bombers, fighter-bombers and fighters filled the skies over Northern France, some engaging in dog-fights with as many as 20 enemy planes.

Attackers Fly Low
Air fields pounded were at Lille-Nord, Montdidier, Evreux-Fauville, Dreux, Vitry-en-Artois and Bauvais-Tille, all landing fields the Germans need for any sort of serious defense against the Allies.

It was the second straight day the Eighth Air Force sent large forces of heavies to the support of Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's advancing armies and followed a night attack on four rail bottlenecks behind the battle zone by RAF bombers, out in force over the continent for the seventh straight night.

Marauders and Haves of the Ninth Air Force hit road and rail junctions at Annay Sur Odon, southwest of Caen, Conde Sur Noireau, south of there, and La Haye De Puits west of Arentan, some flying so low a gunner said "you could pick out German Lieutenants from sergeants and shoot the Lieutenants." All planes returned.

Fighters and fighter-bombers of both American and British sections of the Allied Expeditionary Air Force plastered many of Field Marshal Gen. Karl Rudolf Gerd Von Rundstedt's installations with bombs, rockets and bullets.

Troops In Panic
Supreme headquarters said at least six of 50 German planes seen over the battle area had been

Chinese Hard-Pressed;
War Going Badly For
Japs In Other Sectors

BY RAY CROIN

Associated Press War Editor

The Pacific-Asiatic war thundered to higher tempo yesterday (Monday) with chief interest centering on fierce battling in China that may decide the fate of the entire eastern section of that country.

As heroic Chinese forces resisted furiously at besieged Changsha, strategic railway town in Hunan province, the Japanese invaders launched a new drive northward from the Canton sector in an apparent effort to build a "west wall" against the Allies.

In virtually all other regions of the vast Pacific-Oriental war theater the Japanese were faring badly.

Sentenced To Prison
For Embezzlement

Marquette, June 13 (AP)—John Harvard Wilson of Iron River was convicted in U. S. district court here today on a charge of having failed to report on December 8, 1942, for induction into the army.

Wilson's defense was that as a "minister of religion," the title accruing to him as a member of an organization known as "Jehovah's Witnesses," he was exempt from draft regulations. He was defended by William R. McCree of Detroit, state counsel for that organization.

Wilson waived a jury trial; the case being heard by Judge Raymond. Sentence will be passed in Grand Rapids June 22.

Theodore Frank Anderson, 20, of Iron River, one of two brothers who for some time have been fugitives on charges of refusing to register for the draft, was sentenced to three years and nine months in a federal prison following conviction here two days ago.

Howard Lean, former Houghton bank teller, was sentenced to one year and one month in a federal penitentiary, plus three years of probation, upon conviction on two charges, one of embezzlement and the other of making false entries in books.

The citizenship of Erick Gunar Jacobson, former resident of Norway, Mich., and now in Sweden, was revoked by the court on grounds of continued absence from the country.

With the sentences today, the criminal calendar for the June session was concluded.

MURDER JURY PICKED

Detroit, June 12 (AP)—A jury of 12 women and two men was completed in Circuit Judge William Friedman's court today as the murder trial of Richard Vincent 23-year-old gasoline station attendant charged with the killing of Joyce Rankin, 14, got under way.

The girl's beaten and stabbed body was found on a west side city dump on March 29.

President Thinks
Japs Are Doomed,
Germany Trapped

Washington, June 12 (AP)—

President Roosevelt said tonight we can force the Japanese "to unconditional surrender or to national suicide much more rapidly than has been thought possible."

The president, speaking on a national radio program opening the $16,000,000,000 Fifth War Loan Drive, said our original strategy of eliminating Germany first and then turning our full war strength into the Pacific can hasten the day of our victory on all fronts.

Germany, he said, is "first on the list for destruction," and added: "Germany has her back against the wall—in fact three walls at once."

"On the south—we have broken the German hold on central Italy * * *. On the east—our gallant Soviet allies have driven the enemy back from the lands which were invaded three years ago. Great Soviet armies are now initiating crushing blows."

"Over head—vast Allied air fleets of bombers and fighters have been waging a bitter air war over Germany and western Europe. They have had two major objectives: To destroy German war industries which maintain the German armies and air forces; and to shoot the German Luftwaffe out of the air. As a result German production has been whittled continuously and the German fighter force now has only a fraction of its former power."

"This great air campaign, strategic and tactical, will continue with increasing power."

"On the west—the hammer blow which struck the coast of France last Tuesday morning was the culmination of many months of careful planning and strenuous preparation."

DEMOCRATS HIT
SNAG IN TEXASFourth Term Issue May
Cause Court Battle
Over Party Split

(By The Associated Press)

A court battle over the fourth term issue was shaping up today (Tuesday) as a result of an intraparty split among Texas Democrats.

The Texas Democratic executive committee, meeting yesterday at Dallas, voted 37 to 6 against certifying a slate of pro-Roosevelt presidential electors for printing on the July primary ballot.

The slate was advanced by a faction that broke away from the party's state convention after being twice outvoted by anti-administration elements.

The convention then went ahead and named its own group of 22 electors and instructed them not to support the party's presidential nominee unless the two-thirds nominating rule is restored at the national convention and other conditions are met.

Chairman George Butler of the executive committee contended this group of electors was selected by a "perfectly regular convention," and unless yesterday's action is upset in the courts it will be the only slate appearing on the general election ballots.

FISH PRICES CUT

Washington, June 12 (AP)—Changes in the price ceiling regulation on fresh fish and seafood which the office of price administration said will cause drop of from one to three cents a pound in the cost to housewives were announced tonight.

Willys-Overland

Toledo, June 12 (AP)—Charles E. Sorenson, veteran automobile executive formerly associated with the Ford Motor Co., has entered into a contract as chief executive officer of Willys-Overland motors, Inc., it was announced today.

Ward M. Canaday, Willys board chairman, made the announcement in confirming similar reports circulated last week. Canaday said Sorenson, 62, is to be elected president of the company soon.

Canaday, Willys chairman for eight years, several months ago accepted the presidency with the stated intention of selecting an outstanding automotive man for the job as soon as possible.

Sorenson, who last March severed 39 years' association with Henry Ford by resigning as vice president of the Ford Motor Co. is one of the world's greatest production experts and generally is regarded as originator of the automotive assembly line.

KARELIA FRONT

BY RUSSELL LANDSTROM

London, June 12. (AP)—Russian tanks and picked troops struck through breaches in the rebuilt Mannerheim Line today in a drive toward the big Finnish port of Viipuri, less than 45 miles away from advanced spearheads—with the capital of Helsinki itself as the ultimate goal.

Churning up the Karelian Isthmus ravaged by the 1939-40 Russo-Finnish war, Russian artillery, bombs and guns of the Baltic fleet cracked the defenses along a 25-mile front and stunned the Finns with a cannonading which echoed through Leningrad, more than 25 miles away.

Rail Centers Seized

Dispatches from Moscow said the Red army had seized several large railroad centers beyond the 1938 Russo-Finnish border and that Finnish casualties, heavy from the start, were increasing.

They pictured the Finns as dazed by the suddenness and weight of the attack and as ill-prepared for threats of big-scale landings behind their lines under cover of the Soviet Baltic fleet.

More enemy positions were being rolled up hourly as the Finns under Col. Gen. Leonid Govorov, liberator of Leningrad, struck repeatedly in the virtually constant daylight of the northern summer.

The newspaper Pravda declared the breakthrough was "great and significant" and that "now the

Mokmer Airfield

Advanced Allied Headquarters, New Guinea, Tuesday, June 13 (AP)—Japanese are being cleaned from their strong positions on Biak Island west of Mokmer airstrip, headquarters announced today.

American infantry troops were advancing westward from captured Mokmer machine gun Sunday against enemy machine gun fire coming from bunkers.

Headquarters also disclosed that Palau and Truk again were bombed Saturday night. Palau's airstrip was hit and installations on Truk were attacked by planes from southwest Pacific bases.

Truk and Palau are 1,000 miles apart in the Caroline Island group.

At Sarmi in Dutch New Guinea, patrols reported 173 more enemy dead Sunday and 223 more at Hollandia.

Sarmi is on the New Guinea mainland opposite Wakde island, an Allied airbase from which the Bougainville strike may have been launched.

Editor's Note: Ernie Pyle arrived on the Beachhead for the Allied assault forces. Transmission difficulties have so far prevented his sending an account of his experiences in Normandy. The following, written on the way across the channel, describes some of the preliminaries to the invasion.

ON THE NORMANDY BEACHHEAD (by wireless)—It will be several days before military security permits us to describe in much detail the landing just made in the long-awaited Allied invasion of Europe.

Indeed it will be some time before we have a really clear picture of what has happened or what is happening at the moment. You must experience the terrible confusion of warfare and the frantic, night-marish thunder and smoke and bedlam of battle to realize this.

So we will take up this short interval by telling you how things led up to the invasion from the correspondents' viewpoint. This column is being written on a ship in a convoy, crossing the English Channel, so that it will be ready to send back to England by dispatch boat as soon as we hit the beach.

When we secretly left London a few days ago, more than 450 American correspondents were gathered in Britain for this impending moment in history.

Nazi Cherbourg
Line Is Broken

BY WES GALLAGHER

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, Tuesday, June 13. (AP)—American tanks and infantry smashed through the center of the German line in Normandy yesterday, capturing the Cerisy Forest 18 miles inland from the sea, topping the stronghold of Carentan after a bitter fight, and battling Nazi forces only 14 miles from the prize port of Cherbourg.

Headquarters said that Field Marshal Gen. Erwin Rommel was using from 14 to 15 divisions, 250,000 German troops, against the Allied forces, but Communiqué No. 14 declared: "The fusion of our beachheads is now complete and a coastal strip some 60 miles long is firmly in our hands. Its depth is being increased steadily."

Over 10,000 Prisoners
A later official statement also said: "The enemy has been unable to build up his attacking forces as rapidly as anticipated."

LANSING GRAFT
TRIAL STARTEDPicking Jury Long Job;
Conspiracy Charge
Dismissal Denied

Mason, Mich., June 12 (AP)—

Selection of a jury for trial of 23 defendants charged with conspiracy to corrupt the 1939 Michigan legislature started in the Ingham county circuit court today, with indications it would be a long and painstaking task.

Thirteen of 14 jurors had been selected tentatively when court adjourned for the day, but there was a constant change of faces in the jury box as the defense and prosecution exercised peremptory challenges, or members were excused for cause.

Opposing counsel said they hoped a jury would be completed by late tomorrow, but gave no assurance this was likely. Each side may use 115 peremptory challenges to eliminate unwanted jurors. The defense so far has used 15, the prosecution seven.

Judge John Simpson, trial judge, overruled a defense motion for dismissal of the conspiracy charge against five of the defendants, accused of paying bribes to the other 18 who are past and present members of the legislature, as the case opened this morning. The court announced it found no merit in the defense contentions that evidence produced in preliminary examination had been insufficient to justify holding them for trial.

War Cost To U. S. A.
200 Billion So Far,
Morgenthau Reveals

War Bond Drive Texarkana, U. S. A., June 12 (AP)—The United States has spent $200,000,000,000 on the war so far and before the year is out another $35,000,000,000 will be spent, Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., said here tonight to officially open the Fifth War Loan Drive.

"General Marshall told me last Wednesday before he left for England that our war expenditure for the last three months of this year will be the highest yet and that we've just started," the treasury head said in a script prepared for delivery on a four-network broadcast that opened the campaign for $15,000,000,000.

To march from Naples to Rome cost $6,700,000,000. I leave it to you to imagine what it will cost to march from Rome to Berlin.

"The cost of taking the Marshall Islands was $8,000,000,000. I leave it to you to imagine what it will cost us to go from the Marshall Islands to Tokyo."

Also, during those last few weeks we were called frequently for mass conferences and we were briefed by several commanding generals. We had completed all our field equipment, got our inoculations up to date, finished our official accrediting to supreme Allied headquarters, and even sent off our headquarters 10 days before the

ARMY BROKEN
UP IN FLIGHTBRITISH - AMERICAN
FORCES 71 MILES
BEYOND ROME

BY LYNN HEINZERLING

Rome, June 12 (AP)—The German 14th army has been "dispersed to the four winds," Allied headquarters declared today as Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's American and British forces, pursuing the disorganized Germans up the Italian west coast, approached Orbetello, 71 miles northwest of Rome.

As depleted enemy units fell back toward the Florence area with the greater part of their equipment lost, the Nazi high command faced the immediate necessity of sending heavy reinforcements from France or elsewhere in Europe if any real attempt was to be made to hold northern Italy.

"It is now quite clear," the Allied announcement said, "that the original 14th army * * * has been dispersed to the four winds. All that remains is a few scattered remnants who mainly are engaged in stealing one another's transport to get away as fast as possible. Prisoners describe the situation as wholly chaotic."

The German commander, Field Marshal Albert Kesselring, not only has been forced to throw all but one of the 24 divisions he had in Italy into a desperate effort to slow the Allied steamroller, but has brought in three fresh infantry divisions, it was disclosed today.

What is left of the Nazi 10th army, which once struck hammer blows at Allied troops clinging to the Anzio beachhead, appears to have been put on a every-man-for-himself basis in the flight toward Florence.

Across the breadth of Italy the Allied Fifth and Eighth armies pressed grimly forward, meeting organized resistance only where the Nazis badly needed time to extricate their troops. The countryside was littered with abandoned enemy equipment.

Headquarters disclosed that the Sixth South African armored division participated in the Eighth army's drive up the Liri and Sacco valleys to Rome and that it now is fighting more than 50 miles north of the capital.

Supply Lines Stretched

The South Africans, who played a prominent part in the desert warfare in North Africa, entered the fighting near Cassino with zest. Only two days ago they broke into a German position held by two battalions, killing about 200, capturing a like number and adding new stores of enemy equipment to the Eighth army's collection.

While the Allied advance continues relentlessly, it is recognized that the Allied lines of supply are becoming daily more extended. In future fighting much will depend on the speed with which Allied engineers can repair dynamited bridges and roads and put the including the port of Cherbourg. Commanders Visit Front

Pierce fighting between British and enemy armored units continued between Tilly-sur-Seuille and Caen, east of the Cerisy Forest now occupied by the Americans, the bulletin said.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, supreme Allied invasion commander, made a five-hour inspection tour of the American sector yesterday, accompanied by Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of the U. S. army staff, Admiral Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the U. S. fleet, and Gen. Henry H. Arnold, head of the U. S. air forces.

Besides the American "big four," Prime Minister Churchill of Britain also visited the Normandy front 100 miles across the English Channel. With him were Field Marshal Jan Christian Smuts, South African premier, and Field Marshal Sir Alan Brooke, chief of the British imperial staff.

The greatest daylight heavy bomber fleet ever dispatched from Britain, more than 1,400 U. S. Flying Fortress and Liberators, supported the invasion during the day by striking at a broad belt of 16 airfields and six rail bridges in France.

In the overall situation Rommel's Axis forces were showing signs of weakness, an official statement said. But the Germans were pouring reinforcements into the western coastal areas of the Cherbourg peninsula and putting up stiffer resistance against the American thrusts below Cherbourg, it added.

Road Crossings Held

The U. S. drive on Cherbourg and the west coastal roads were facilitated by the securing of additional road crossings over coastal inundations made by the Germans, the communique said. The seizure of Carentan and its sluice gates also will enable the Americans to drain off large areas flooded by the Germans.

Conflicting field dispatches which said the Germans had not shown any sign of mounting to a major counter-attack with reserve forces, headquarters said the enemy "is unable to take his armor out of the battle to reform for a large attack because he apparently lacks infantry to hold the ground."

At Caen on the east end of the 60-mile-long Normandy invasion line, a Berlin broadcast said, "A new major battle is imminent. Both sides have concentrated powerful tank and motorized artillery formations. (General Sir Bernard L.) Montgomery has tried in the last 24 hours to surround Caen but the town still is in German hands."

Other German accounts said the British had infiltrated German lines on both sides of Caen and had dropped parachutists at the rear of the town, to the south.

British Withdraw

A great tank battle also was raging at Tilly-sur-Seuille with strong indications that British-Canadian formations had been hurled out of that town, 12 miles west of Caen. The Allies were declared however holding commanding high ground around Tilly.

Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, Allied ground commander, told correspondents in France that approximately 7,000 Germans had been captured in the first six days of battle, "and a great many of the enemy has been killed" in addition.

The general also disclosed for the first time that Japanese troops—regular fighting soldiers, not merely military observers—were battling alongside their German Axis partners in Normandy. Small numbers of Japanese already have been taken prisoner and others killed, he said.

Montgomery said that "American troops did absolutely magnificently" in the invasion, recovering on the first day from a situation in which they were "not more than 100 yards inland and were hanging on by their eyelids."

At the close of a week's hard invasion fighting the Allies hold a front of more than 60 miles—extending from the Montebourg-Quineville area, 14 miles south-east of Cherbourg, to a point several miles east of Caen.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Matt Majestic, of Rapid River, and Mrs. John Majestic, of Ensign, twelve grandchildren, two of whom are in foreign service, one with the armed forces in Italy and the other in New Guinea; and two brothers, John Mauhar and Antone Mauhar, of Ensign.

The body was taken to the Allo funeral home for preparation for burial and was returned to the John Majestic home Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Stassen Not Eager For GOP Nomination

Washington, June 12 (AP)—Lieut. Commander Harold E. Stassen, former governor of Minnesota, is not especially interested in getting the Republican vice presidential nomination, Rep. Gale (R-Minn.) said tonight on the basis of a letter from a mutual friend.

There was no downright refusal of the nomination, should it be tendered Stassen, Gale quoted the letter from the unidentified friend, but the inference was left, the congressman added, that the Minnesotan was not particularly interested.

Rotary Club Is Cool Toward State Sales Tax Amendment

Proposed amendments to the state constitution to provide for a diversion of the state sales tax and other suggestions for changing the state's tax system were discussed by the Escanaba Rotary club at its Monday meeting.

The discussion showed the sentiment of the Rotarians ranged from coldness toward the proposals to actual hostility—and there were some suggestions by those who had received copies of amendment petitions to return them. Nowhere was there a champion of the proposed amendments, because it was felt that taxation programs should not be "tied" with a constitutional knot.

Briefly, the proposed amendments discussed are:

1—Return to local government all units of one-third of the state sales tax revenue.

2—Local services which the state legislature makes mandatory on the part of the local unit must be paid for by the state.

3—The guaranteeing of school districts not less than the amount of aid they now receive, and providing for additional aid in the future.

Escanaba City Manager George E. Bean was program chairman. He is also a member of the state advisory tax study committee. He outlined the three proposed amendments and explained what additional revenue the city would receive under the first amendment, which provides for a return to local governmental units of one-third of state sales tax revenue. This would amount to between $20,000 and $35,000 annually in Escanaba.

"Personally, I'm against them," Bean said. "I do not like the method in which the tax questions are being approached."

"It is true that some cities under the 15-mill tax limitation are hard pressed. One of these is Grand Rapids, whose mayor called a meeting of municipal officials which resulted in these amendments. But Gov. Kelly had previously consulted with municipal officials and a tax study committee to study the problem for all tax levels, is now functioning."

The city of Escanaba, because it receives about half its operating revenue from its utilities, is not hard pressed, the city manager added.

Bean said that he personally felt the proposed amendments should not be made a part of the state constitution. Tax matters should be based on policy, not written into legislation. To do so would be to "write a fixed formula," would encourage local government to pass its finance problems on to the state and thus avoid local responsibility.

Recognizing that a problem does exist in some communities, however, he warned that "something must be done locally and at the state level to relieve the financial problems of the schools and poorer cities" or more amendments would be proposed.

In discussion and in response to questions, the city manager said that sponsors of the amendments claim that state funds are sufficient to pay the amounts proposed without hurting the state. The state's condition, however, is "only temporarily good"

Armistice Hopes Gone

The Russians were reported to have crossed the Sestra River, which flows southwest through captured Terijoki, and to be fighting through lakes, swamps and hills of Karelia after breaking steel and concrete fortifications in the powerful push. Terijoki is 27 miles north of Leningrad and 160 miles east of Helsinki.

Among the points taken was Kuokkala, six miles east of Terijoki on the Gulf, where dispatches said the studio of the famous Russian painter Ilya Repin was found in ruins.

The big Russian guns also blasted the hopes of an armistice which the Soviet Union has been trying to negotiate since mid-February.

The Stockholm correspondent of the Finnish newspaper, the Helsingin Sanomat, reported U. S.-Finnish relations were growing worse since the Russian drive began and speculated that there might be a diplomatic break shortly.

War Bonds Cover Kitchen Walls Of Columbus, O., Home

Columbus, O., June 12 (AP)—The paper with which Harold A. Miller is covering walls of his kitchen will be worth $4,200 ten years hence.

At present Miller has almost an entire side of the kitchen covered with $25, $50 and $100 war bonds—and one $500 bond. During the Fifth War Loan drive he hopes to get at least another side of the room finished.

A retired confectioner, Miller started buying war stamps from his newsboy in 1942 and then branched out into buying bonds.

EXCELSIOR IN MUCH DEMAND

Wood Bolt Peeling Is Now In Progress In Region

The excelsior bolt peeling season is now under way in the Upper Michigan and Wisconsin woods region.

And what is excelsior? You won't find the answer in the Encyclopedia Britannica for some reason or other, but those engaged in wartime logging, manufacturing and shipping operations know how desperately the resilient, wooden strings are needed to insure the safe delivery of airplane parts, radios, radar, medical supplies, vital instruments and other military supplies to the fighting fronts.

Bolts are sticks of timber, 55 inches long and at least 4 inches in diameter at the small end, chiefly of poplar and basswood, when produced in the Lake States forest region. In the south, cottonwood and yellow pine are generally used.

Bark peels freely from the basswood and poplar bolts during the spring and early summer. Recently, the excelsior industry prevailed upon OPA to raise the price ceiling on peeled bolts by 75 cents to an all time peak of $13.25 per cord, F. O. B. car. Producers who truck the peeled wood to the mill receive $14.25 per cord.

Prefer Peeled Bolts

Excelsior manufacturers are advertising the price ceiling raise extensively in the newspapers of the timber producing areas in an effort to induce farmers and other producers to peel the bolts. The past winter was ideal for cutting timber, and the mills received more excelsior bolts than the previous year. However, the OPA ceiling price of $19 for unpeeled bolts on cars and $12.50 for peeled provided a spread of only $2.50 which was insufficient to cover the cost of peeling and loss of bark.

On May 12, the 75-cent increase on peeled bolts went into effect, but some producers still contend the $2.25 difference is not enough to encourage peeling in the woods. Excelsior plants, in the meantime, have stopped buying the unpeeled, but are holding their fingers crossed as to the results. The manufacturers prefer to have the producers peel the bolts before delivery to them because otherwise they would have to seek extra labor for temporary jobs at a time when workers are hard to find.

The production of excelsior is still not meeting the demand, however. Virtually all the output is sold on an AA-1 priority directly to the government and war plants. Much excelsior is also used for packing fruit.

Some plants are cutting their hours of operation now as they can see a shortage of dry wood, six to ten months from now. One of the difficulties in obtaining an adequate wood supply is that pulp mills and box factories are also competing for these forest products.

Industry Has Revival

Nevertheless, the excelsior industry is enjoying a wartime revival, when compared with the trend of its business activity in peacetime.

Excelsior has been manufactured in the United States for about three-quarters of a century. The name originated in America and the first excelsior machine was made here. The method of manufacture and the product were greatly improved by Europeans in later years. In France, in addition to ordinary uses, excelsior is employed as a substitute for absorbent lint used in surgery, for filtration purposes, and to a limited extent for woven floor coverings. In this country excelsior is used for packing fruit, glassware, earthenware, and other breakable articles. It is also used in mattress making, upholstery, including furniture, for packing furniture and similar products, as kennel and stable bedding, for decorative purposes, and for stuffing toys. Many of these peacetime uses, however, have been subordinated temporarily to wartime packing of important and sensitive war equipment.

Before the war, it was necessary for the manufacturers to look continually for new uses for excelsior as many substitutes were appearing on the market. About 1921, the price of cotton became so low, that mattress makers substituted cotton, which meant a loss for excelsior makers of about 40 per cent of their market. Paper cartons, shaped to fit material to be packed, also obviated the need for excelsior. Then, shredded paper was introduced. The loss of the egg cushion business later was also quite serious.

As a result, many excelsior companies were forced out of business during the last two decades, while some small operators were absorbed by the large concerns, such as the American Excelsior Corporation, which operates plants at Marinette, Oshkosh, Rice Lake, Wis., and in other parts of the country. In 1900, for instance, there were 109 excelsior mills in the United States, while in 1939 the number had declined to 53.

Protects Shipping

Excelsior is important as a protective material in shipping because of its resilience or "life," that is, ability to expand readily after compression. It is this property that enables excelsior to fill space between packed articles, and upholstered articles, to resume their original condition after use.

Equipment for excelsior production is comparatively simple, since excelsior is simply split shavings or ribbon veneer. The equipment consists of a slicing knife for shaving off the surface of a bolt, and a series of scoring knives for splitting the slice. However, the surface of the bolt is scored first to the depth of the slice, or the thickness of the excelsior. The slicing knife then shaves off the excelsior in finished form.

Excelsior is graded according to the thickness and width of strand and the kind and color of the wood. Standard excelsior is 18 inches long, 1/100 of an inch thick, and is divided into width classes as follows: fine 1/26 inch wide; medium 1/8 inch wide; and coarse 7/32 inch wide.

Excelsior is sold by the ton, packed in bales of 100 and 200 pounds. During the 10-year period from 1927 to 1937 the output of excelsior decreased from 190,000 to 132,000 tons, with 131,032 cords of wood used in the latter year. Production has increased in wartime and probably would be breaking all-time records if the mills could obtain the wood.

Milwaukee Road Credits War Bonds To Delta County

Delta county Fifth War Loan drive will be credited with $22,000 of the Milwaukee Road's purchase of government securities.

The road has arranged as it did during the Third and Fourth drives for every county in the 12 states in which it operates to participate in its purchase.

Michigan is allotted $202,000 to be distributed among the counties which it serves.

H. A. Scandrett, trustee of the Milwaukee Road, in asking authority to make the purchase, told the federal court in Chicago Tuesday that in addition to assisting the United States in the prosecution of the war and contributing to the success of the Fifth War Loan drive the investment likewise will be advantageous to the railroad.

Many fighter pilots reported a number of combats, but these failed to keep them from dive-bombing and strafing. Troops at Failaise were reported thrown into panic by low-flying bombers.

Up to 750 fighters escorting the American heavy bombers tangled with German fighters but not one of the enemy planes got through. Then the fighter escort strafed and bombed 11 locomotives, 63 railway cars, more than 100 vehicles and other targets.

SHEEHAN URGES LASTING PEACE

Obligation To American Flag, Says State Trooper

Sgt. Ralph Sheehan of the Michigan State Police, Marquette, delivered an inspiring address at the annual flag day exercises Sunday afternoon at the Elks club, emphasizing the obligation of the United States to its flag for a permanent peace after the present world conflict is over.

The speaker declared that the country failed in this obligation in 1919, but must now make certain that the modern generation of children will not have to march off to war again in another 20 years.

The speaking program at the Elks club climaxed a colorful parade from the junior high school building to the Elks club. The parade was led by the Sons of Legion drum and bugle corps and included the Escanaba municipal band, U. S. Coast Guards, Legionnaires and city officials.

Sheehan was introduced by A. J. Goulais.

Elect Good And Dault At Harris

Leslie Good, incumbent, was reelected and Theodore Dault was elected a new member of the Harris township school board in the balloting in that township yesterday.

Good received 78 votes and Dault 76.

Dault was a slip candidate, having failed to file nominating petitions, and no other candidates presenting themselves. Dault will succeed John Kleinman, who was not a candidate.

Buy War Bonds

WITH "Invasion Day" already a matter of history and the final annihilation of Nazism approaching closer with every passing day, Escanaba yesterday, launched its drive to back up our fighting forces on every battle front of the world. Other communities in Delta county will launch their campaigns for the sale of Fifth War Loan bonds, within a few days.

Delta county men are fighting and dying from the fields of France to the South Pacific and the Far East. We who are privileged to remain in the security of our homes are asked only to invest our surplus funds in the bonds of our nation.

On every battle field of the world American arms have already written proud history. Battling side by side with their allies, American boys are proving that American valor today fully matches the treasured military history of this land. The achievement of final victory is already certain—only the time is in doubt.

Our fighting forces must be provided with arms and munitions, to press home this final advance, through funds that must be provided by you and I. You are not asked to GIVE—you are asked only to INVEST.

While the quota for the Fifth War Loan campaign assigned to Delta county may seem large, we can meet it through the cooperation of all. Those who have much, must INVEST much—those who have little must do their share. As citizens of a community where our people are privileged to cling to at least a semblance of the American way of life, even in war time, we can now prove the quality of our patriotism and our loyalty to those who are doing our fighting for us, by buying war bonds in greater volume than ever before.

Our money will be worth nothing if our fighting forces should fail. That they will not fail has already been proven. We must back them with our invested dollars, to hasten the day of final victory.

Take Vacation Early

ODT appeals to the public to refrain from vacation travel as much as possible this summer strikes a discouraging note in the Upper Peninsula, which has been long struggling to build up its tourist industry.

Efforts to keep the Upper Peninsula's recreational attractions before the public eye have continued on a reduced scale in wartime. This has been done so that vacation seekers will not lose sight of this region and to pave the way for the resumption of tourist promotion more extensively after the war.

But the pleas of ODT cannot be disregarded, of course. The war has now reached its most critical stage. Railroads and buses are crowded with service men taking their last furlough home before shipping overseas, and with business men and government officials making trips to further the war effort.

There are also many persons, flush with wartime wages and profits, who are using the trains, airplanes and buses for pleasure travel. In most instances, they are doubtless entitled to a vacation trip to relieve the tension under which they have been working for months.

Those who feel they must take a vacation trip to the northwestern regions are advised to do so in the early summer, however. ODT points out that within a couple months the casualties will be coming back from the European invasion front. The movement of these wounded men to hospitals in this country will require much Pullman space, and most certainly their needs must be given priority. The tourist business is important to the Upper Peninsula and other resort areas, but it is altogether proper that it take a back seat for the time being.

Navy Reaching Goal

THE revision of the draft procedure through which registrants found physically qualified will be placed in a common pool to be drawn upon according to the needs of the services is an indication that the Navy has about reached its personnel goal, and probably will be able to meet its needs mainly from the enlistments of 17 year olds.

The Navy has always jealously guarded the privilege of controlling the selection of its personnel, a privilege that it no longer will hold under the plan to draw men for service from a common pool. It is unlikely that the Navy would willingly accept this latest procedure if it involved the selection of any considerable number of men.

Replacements for casualties naturally will be considerably greater in the Army than in the Navy, a further indication that the draft calls in the forthcoming months will be preponderantly for the Army.

French Want de Gaulle

THE invasion of the Normandy coast has brought an answer to one burning question. It is the question of how General de cupied France. The answer is that they Gaulle stands with the people within o-view the head of the French Committee of National Liberation as their leader. This information comes from the newspaper correspondents, who went into Normandy with the invasion forces and sounded out sentiment among the people in the liberated areas.

However, General Eisenhower did not make any mention of General de Gaulle when he proclaimed that the people of liberated France choosing. General de Gaulle and his Fighting French troops also were very noticeably absent when the Allies attacked the French coast.

It is all very strange. For awhile, we were more inclined to do business with Petain and his Vichy government in France. Later we catered to Darlan and other Vichyites in North Africa. For some time, too, we kow-towed to the Vichyite Admiral Robert in Martinique. But the Allies would have little to do with General de Gaulle, who more than any other Frenchmen has kept the spirit of the true France alive.

Some months ago, General de Gaulle sought an audience with President Roosevelt in Washington, but he failed to receive an invitation. Last week, finally, it was announced he would be permitted to come to the White House. Our political relations with France have been one of the deepest mysteries of this war. It is time that it were cleared up.

PAPER GOES TO WAR

Lincoln (Ill.) Courier

Newspapers have been shrinking somewhat in size in recent months and a great deal of waste space has been eliminated without in any way detracting from newspaper reader interest.

Some newspapers have reduced the size but not the number of their comics, nearly all are saving precious space by using smaller margins at the top of pages, and most of them have cut out the plain "filler" matter that used to be run when newspaper was available in any quantity desired.

Now that paper has gone to war, let us see what the newspapers have accomplished in saving this critical wartime product.

The newspapers last month cut their use of paper 17.3 percent under their consumption of April, 1943 and 21.6 percent under their usage in April, 1944.

These are the percentage declines for the 525 daily newspapers that use 75 percent of the nation's total newspaper and report to the American Newspaper Publishers' association. The tonnage for April was 201,136 against 243,281 tons in the same month last year and 256,431 tons in April, 1943.

This is a tremendous saving and it shows that the greatest consumers of paper, the newspapers themselves, are leading the way in the national campaign to save paper.

Paper has become as much a munition of war as planes, ships and guns. Several hundred thousand items, ranging from tanks to pins and needles, are shipped overseas in paper. Blood plasma, ammunition, food and all the necessities that reach our fighting men must be packed in containers made from paper.

The reason for this shortage is the shortage of wood pulp from which paper is made. With no increase in sight for labor available to work in forests and paper mills the War Production Board assigned definite quotas of reduced tonnage to all newspapers and at the same time inaugurated collection of waste paper, which can be used only in making paper containers.

Newspaper readers can aid in the critical days ahead by saving all paper and turning it in to the salvage drive or the waste paper dealers. The more waste paper available for containers the more wood pulp can be diverted to newspaper.

The newspaper quotas are much smaller than normal requirements and are complicated by increased circulations due to interest in the war news. But the newspapers are fully complying with the paper win-the-war order. The saving of more than 80 million pounds of paper by 525 daily newspapers last month alone, testifies to that.

Take My Word For it . . .

Frank Colby

I DO MEAN "YOO."

There are a number of words with three or more syllables in which "u" is often not pronounced or is given a neutral sound, as "AK-rit" for accurate, "MAN-yul" for manual, "YOO-zht" for usual, etc.

In formal or public speaking, such as broadcasting, lecturing, preaching, one should distinctly pronounce the "u" as "yoo," and make it a separate syllable, thus:

accurate: AK-yoo-rit annual: AN-yoo-ul
manual: MAN-yoo-ul
manufacture: MAN-yoo-FAK-ture
strenuous: STREN-yoo-iss stimulate: STIM-yoo-late usual: YOOZH-yoo-ul
vacuum: VAK-yoo-um
valuable: VAL-yoo-uh-b'l
visual: VIZH-yoo-ul

On the other hand, one should guard against the prevailing tendency to place an intrusive "u" sound in words in which it should not occur, as, "sub-STAN-choo-ul" for substantial, "SKEDGE-yoo-ul" for schedule, "SIM-yoo-ler" for similar, "ee-SEN-choo-ul" for essential.

Better say:

sub-STAN-sh'l
SKEDGE-yool
SIM-lay
ch-SEN-sh'l

Question: What is the origin of the

World War In The Air

BY MAJOR A. P. de SEVERSKY

Our invasion of Europe is a typical triphibious operation, of the kind with which we have become familiar in the Pacific as well as in the Sicilian and Italian campaigns. In military actions of this sort the most vital immediate step is the establishment of friendly airdromes for fighter aviation on the invaded territory. Without an adequate fighter umbrella, of course, our forces would be exposed to terrific punishment.

The conquest and establishment of fighter airdromes will therefore be the first objective, as our forces obtain beachheads and strike out inland. It should be noted, however, that every fighter used to shield our invading armies means one fighter less to defend the British Isles. This may mean nothing or everything, depending on whether the Germans have accumulated a bombing force in the last few years.

There has been much speculation on this question, and the answer cannot long be delayed. If the Germans do possess such a force—and all appearances are as yet to the contrary—this is the most propitious time for them to use it. Our major aerial strength is concentrated over the Channel; much of it will be permanently tied up to protect this main artery of supply. Our fighter aviation is divided—at this moment only a part of it is available for protecting England against a possible counter-blow. If the enemy did not retaliate with bombings all through the years since the Battle of Britain in order to conserve planes, this is his best chance. It is now or never.

—EXPECTED HEAVY LOSSES—

There has been a great deal of advance talk about the terrific losses to be expected in the invasion—in the first place, losses suffered in crossing the water gap and establishing beachheads, and secondly, losses in the field of battle when we tackle the German armies. Airmen have been especially apprehensive about the first type of losses, in negotiating the Channel and establishing beachheads. To attempt that phase without complete mastery of the air over the water seemed to us suicidal.

It was to forestall that danger that air power has been dedicated in the last few months. If our aerial operations against the Luftwaffe have been successful, the anticipated losses, happily, may not materialize. Should the early indications that we control the skies prove correct, there is every reason to believe that losses can be kept down in the later stages, in the land operations, as well.

I for one do not share the apparently widespread fear of a difficult and costly mile-by-mile struggle after the shores are conquered and regular supply lines are guaranteed. That fear rests primarily on a lingering faith in "walls" and other ground barriers. But given aerial superiority, these should prove much less formidable than generally expected.

Prediction is a risky business in the midst of a military undertaking of unprecedented dimensions. Yet I venture to forecast that if the invasion itself succeeds, progress on land will be rapid. The very factors that will have made invasion possible will, it seems to me, make effective German opposition impossible. If Germany did not have sufficient air strength to contest the skies and stop us while we were on water, they will not have enough air strength to stop our armies once we move on dry land.

—SUCCESS OR FAILURE—

Back in January I wrote in these dispatches that the invasion, when it comes, will be either a successful operation or a costly failure. The chances of "something between the two extremes," I wrote, "are quite remote under air power conditions." Nothing has happened to change my views in this connection.

I do not believe we can "bog down" once we have established ourselves on the continent. In order to stop us for a long period, the Germans must match our air power. But if they possess such air power, they will use it to greater advantage against the invasion forces moving across the Channel and against our supply lines, to isolate the beached armies.

With the skies firmly in our control, we can readily make the enemy's defensive positions untenable. Land operations, it is true, will absorb a large portion of our air power in supporting functions to the ground forces. Therefore, from now on only a part of our strength will be used for the demolition of German industries. But it will still continue inexorably to grind down the enemy's means for waging war.

Once we surmount the most vital and risky phase of the operation—the establishment of permanent bridgeheads on the continental coast, connected by impregnable supply lines with the British Isles—our losses on the continent may prove to be greatly below expectations.

Great decisive land battles of the World War I variety probably will not occur. Neither clear-cut victories nor clear-cut defeats will be likely in the land fighting. The picture, rather, will be that of a continuous German retreat—a series of delaying actions—with Berlin making peace overtures even before Allied troops have reached German soil. All of this is predicted, as I have said at the outset, on the assumption that the Germans have failed to accumulate great aerial strength, which they can unleash unexpectedly.

Those who wondered about it there should know the reason why. ## Just About Ready for the Hammer

Good Morning!

By The Bugler

CRUISE PORT—Escanaba is becoming known as a port of call for Great Lakes passenger boat cruises. The S. S. Greater Detroit of the D & C Navigation company was here for over four hours Friday evening, and for those four hours there was more doing along Ludington street than at an old-fashioned Fourth of July.

Dunathan

The drizzle of rain didn't seem to dampen the spirits of the cruise ship's shore party. The passengers were members of the Detroit Board of Commerce—but if some of their antics were any indication, Detroit is in a bad way from a business standpoint. John Hallen's trading place is on the main street and, among other things (many other things) he had displayed for sale an old victrola—you know, the kind with a big horn coming out of a little machine? Well, some of the "cruisers" sighted the antique and decided it was just the thing to liven up a rainy afternoon, so they bought it.

With the fingers used to nothing more delicate than signing their names to income tax returns, they plopped the needle down on a record and broke it off. After much sidewalk discussion of whether they should not have demanded a guarantee they went their way, were last seen lugging the victrola down Ludington street toward the boat.

CONQUEST—When you turn several hundred men loose on a small town for a few hours something is bound to happen. Some of the Detroiters had an eye for girls—of all ages. With their good nature they accosted little girls and big girls, matrons, spinsters and a few of more dubious classification. It was all in good fun, nevertheless, and no one seemed to take offense.

One girl made a big conquest, although she was only three years old and on the tiny side to boot. She is Beverly Ann Butts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bevier Butts. After obtaining permission from her parents, and winning Beverly with small talk, so dear to feminine ears, one of the Detroiters carried her around in his arms to the tune of considerable banter from his friends—and the jingle of coins. She was returned to her parents with a souvenir straw hat on her head, a pencil to write to her admirer—and two dollars clutched in her little fist!

In the exchange of names (so that Beverly can write to her friend when she gets older) the Butts were somewhat skeptical of the one given by the Detroitier until he pulled out a driver's license to prove that he is—Andrew W. Hardy!

THE OLD DOCK—When the Greater Detroit arrived folks were all gathered at the new municipal dock—new three years ago—to see her tie up. But the big passenger ship went right past and tied up at the old merchants dock, which even charitably inclined persons would refuse to describe as a place of beauty.

Those who wondered about it there should know the reason why. There are two obstructions off the new dock which have not been removed because of wartime conditions, and the Greater Detroit was too big to swing around these and dock at the city dock. One of the obstructions, off the dock's northeast corner, is a sunken crib and pier that once anchored an old sewer outlet; the other is the sunken hull of an old boat off the northwest corner of the dock. Both are marked with buoys.

EXHIBITS—Those Escanaba people who missed seeing the industrial exhibits aboard the Greater Detroit should feel chagrined. (The Bugler was one of these.)

The exhibits were designed to show what Detroit industries are producing not only to help win the war but to better serve mankind.

One thing The Bugler was sorry to hear was that Great Lakes Greyhound Lines didn't have a couple of helicopters aboard as part of its exhibit. These helicopters are the modern version of the family automobile and Greyhound plans to use them on air bus routes after the war.

Incidentally, Manfred Burligh, Great Lakes Greyhound Lines president, was aboard the boat. Looking him over the Bugler wonders how he expects to compress his over-six-feet-tall frame into a helicopter—or are they that roomy?

Also aboard the Greater Detroit, but dropping off here for a trip to his home in St. Ignace, was Prentiss M. Brown, former U. S. senator and former OPA administrator, now chairman of the board of the Detroit Edison company. Brown planned to spend the week end at St. Ignace and then board the boat when it stopped at Mackinac Island enroute to Detroit.

MISSING THE BOAT—How anyone could have missed the Greater Detroit before it pulled away from the dock here is difficult to understand. It seemed to those who watched that enough whistle-tooting went on for an hour or so to warn all laggards to get aboard or be left behind.

Yet two Detroiters missed the boat and had to be taken out and put aboard by the Coast Guard. Which could mean, of course, that the cruise ship passengers had a good time and were in no hurry to leave.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

(Lt. Col. Robert S. Allen now on active service with the Army)

Washington—The President's political advisers aren't shouting about it, but they have now received a 20-page report on the Texas "revolution" from Texas New Deal leader Alvin Wirtz, plus a word-of-mouth report from one confidential envoy arriving from the rebellious Lone Star State.

These appear to confirm the report that Jesse Jones and Will Clayton forces were behind the move in the Texas Democratic convention to instruct electors to disregard century-old precedent in the Electoral College and not necessarily vote for the winner next November.

Here are some of the facts laid before White House political advisers:

Chairman of the Democratic State Executive Committee who led the anti-Roosevelt group is George Butler, Jesse Jones' nephew and attorney for "Jesse H. Jones interests," including banks, radio stations, newspapers, office buildings, building and loan associations. The White House has been informed that Butler has the reputation in Houston of never doing anything without consulting Uncle Jesse, and that many Texas interests seeking to do business with Jones' Reconstruction Finance Corporation employ Nephew Butler as their attorney. It is inconceivable that he would act without Jesse's approval.

—LEADERS OF REVOLT—

Chairman of the Harris County (Houston) delegation which spearheaded the revolt against Roosevelt was John H. Crooker, attorney for Will Clayton, the man who sits at FDR's right hand when it comes to post-war liquidation.

Working with Crooker was Lamar Fleming, head of the giant Anderson, Clayton & Company, biggest cotton brokers in the world, of which Will Clayton is a partner. Both Fleming and Crooker came to Austin in advance of the convention to spearhead the drive against Roosevelt.

Others active in the move included the following representatives of big oil and gas companies: George Heyer, president of Crude Oil, a subsidiary of Sun Oil and in the employ of the Pews, Republican bosses of Pennsylvania; Clint C. Small, lobbyist for Humble Oil, a Standard Oil of N. J. subsidiary; Hiram King, chief lobbyist for Sinclair Oil; E. E. Townes, former chief counsel for Humble Oil; Neth Leachman, representative of Lone Star Gas.

So far, the President has been too busy with the invasion to have any show-down with his Secretary of Commerce and Will Clayton. And if he should go to England, as reported last week, it is doubtful if he has any show-down with them at all.

—FDR ON EVE OF D-DAY—

A group of Democratic and Republican Congressmen, calling themselves the Monday Night Club, dropped in to see the President on Monday, June 5. They did not know this was the eve of D-Day. The President did. However, they got no indication from him that momentous events were impending—except for one slight sign.

When the Congressmen first arrived at about 6 p. m., the President was his usual wise-cracking self.

"I suppose we ought to take an inventory to find out how many of you boys will be back here next year," he remarked. "That's a good idea, provided you believe in reciprocity," shot back Representative John Sparkman of Alabama, indulging in Washington's favorite pastime of angling regarding the fourth term. But the President didn't rise to the bait.

He had just finished his afternoon swim and apparently was relaxed. He remarked that he was going to broadcast on the fall of Rome later in the evening, and explained that the problem of feeding the Italians was growing more difficult.

"When Rome fell, we had several shiploads of grain at a nearby harbor all ready to feed the people," he commented, "and there is a good deal more on the way." He added that grain did not appeal to him as appetizing in its raw state, but that the Italians will get plenty of macaroni and spaghetti out of it.

—SIGN OF NERVOUSNESS—

Representative Francis Walter of Pennsylvania presented the President with an odd gift during the visit—a letter opener made from the forearm of a Jap soldier killed in the Pacific.

"This is the sort of gift I like to get," the President said, as it was placed on his desk.

Representative Walter apologized for presenting such a small part of the Jap's anatomy. But the President interrupted him. "There'll be plenty more such gifts," he said.

The President did not touch the letter opener with his fingers, however. He probed it with a metal letter opener of his own, and called Assistant President Jimmy Byrnes and White House Assistant, Jim Barnes to look at it.

At about this time, the President lit a cigarette and his Congressional callers noted that his usually steady hand shook a bit. He looked in excellent health, but some of them were worried.

Leaving the office at the end of the visit, one of them asked Justice Byrnes about the President's nervousness. Byrnes, who knew what was coming later that night, replied: "That man has an awful lot on his mind." A few hours later, the Congressional callers realized how true this was.

The man who has no will rarely finds a way.

Advance tip: the more you can this season the larger the jar against the oil high cost of living.

If the Germans really want to avoid destruction they should give up their army as they announced they did Rome.

Many people are afraid to dive in shallow water. We need more like them.

Wells Township
Grads Awarded
Diplomas

Forty-two pupils of the Wells Township schools received their eighth grade diplomas at the graduation exercises held Wednesday evening, June 7, at the Free Methodist church in Wells. The program opened with the processional in which the graduates marched in couples up the center aisle of the church, singing "America, the Beautiful," accompanied by Mrs. Moras, teacher at the Newhall school.

Other numbers which were then presented were:

Introductory remarks by Supt. Oren K. King, Wells Township schools.

Song, "God Bless America," by the graduating class, accompanied by Mrs. Moras.

Song, "Whispering Hope," by Shirley Buckland and June Cartwright, accompanied by Mrs. Ruth King, teacher at the Soo Hill school.

Song, "My Own United States," by the graduates of the Newhall and Soo Hill schools, accompanied by Mrs. Moras.

Commencement Address, "This Bright, New World," by Supt. Wallace Cameron, Gladstone public schools.

Song, "Welcome, Sweet Springtime," by the graduates of the Wells Central school, accompanied by Mrs. Loretta Hale, teacher at Wells Central school.

Presentation of Diplomas, by Oscar Larsen, president, board of education, Wells Township schools.

Program Enjoyed

The commencement program closed with an impressive recessional, played by Mrs. Hale, as the graduates passed with their diplomas and roses down the center aisle. The graduates, the teachers of the township, and the superintendent were each given a "red rose" by Mr. Larsen, in behalf of the school board.

The program, presented to a large audience of parents and friends, was greatly enjoyed. The musical numbers, under the supervision of the three eighth grade teachers, Mrs. Hale, Mrs. King and Mrs. Moras, were especially well received since this was the first time that the school furnished its entire musical program at a commencement. The parents enjoyed hearing their children sing and appreciated the training given them.

Mr. Cameron's address was not only very instructive but spiced with his usual laugh-provoking humor. To the graduates, he gave a truly inspirational message, namely, their need for mental development, physical development, and spiritual development in "this bright, new world" after the war.

Adding to the impressiveness of the occasion, was the fragrance and beauty of the lilacs which bordered the entire front of the platform. Vases of lilacs, white snowballs, honeysuckle, and bridal wreath were artistically arranged in front of the flower border. Mrs. Orep King, Mrs. Fred Gardner and Mrs. Frank Winchester furnished the flowers and arranged them.

Mr. King, Chairman

Mr. King acted as master of ceremonies, and in his introductory remarks he commended the graduates for having accomplished what they had; he commended the teachers, not only the eighth grade teachers, who had successfully prepared these boys and girls for their graduation, but all the teachers from the kindergarten up who had contributed to the children's progress; and lastly, he commended the parents, whose interests, love, and sacrifices made it possible for their children to travel thus far toward a goal of higher education and culture.

FOR VICTORY!

NOW, AS America goes all out for invasion—your dollars must join the fight, too! No matter how much you have done—you must do more! It is a solemn duty for every American to buy MORE War Bonds during the 5th WAR LOAN DRIVE—to keep the attack going—to help safeguard your country and your own boys in the fight. The job is big—you've got to dig!

It's a question of simple arithmetic: War costs more today than ever—and during invasion, the demands for supplies reach their peak. A heavy bomber costs about $250,000. A 155 mm. howitzer costs $23,000. Fighter planes cost $50,000.

Invasion barges, tanks, field guns cost thousands upon thousands of dollars. Invasion demands more and ever more fighting equipment to insure Victory. The money must come from every patriotic American at home.

BOOST YOUR PLEDGE

As America faces its "Zero Hour", our armed forces march unflinchingly forward. They are ready to die if need be.

And now, on the home front comes the command—back up our fighting men with the biggest War Loan of all. This is the "Zero Hour" Drive. Our duty is clear...

If you are on the payroll savings plan, buy extra bonds in this drive.

If you buy War Bonds regularly at your bank or Post Office, double your War Bond investment. But, whatever you do, whoever you are, ask yourself this question: "What have I done today that some mother's son should die for me tonight?" Then buy your extra $100—or $200—or $300 Bond. It's for Victory!

42 SCOUTS AT CAMP ON DAYS

Rain Fails To Dampen Arduous Of Local Troops

Forty-two Scouts attended the overnight camp held at the clearing on the Days River just west of Lambert's Grove with Scoutmasters Harold Mackie and Mason Meyer in charge.

PLANNING UNIT MAKES REPORT

Projects Would Provide Work And Improve City

A veterans' hospital, combined youth center and memorial building and a filtering plant for the city water system are major projects on a list of suggested public improvements submitted to the city commission by the Post War Planning committee, named by the city to study and recommend projects which might be undertaken here.

Forming the committee which made an exhaustive survey and study before making their report and recommendations are A. C. Peterson, J. T. Jones, S. R. Venne, George E. Johnson and J. A. Sturgeon.

One of the surveys made covered the number of Gladstone persons in the armed forces, another the employment situation at the present and what it is expected to be two years after the close of the war, and it was determined that if all who have left for service return to this city there will be a shortage of 370 jobs.

Among the recommendations was that the commission make every effort to procure construction of a veterans' hospital in Gladstone. It was urged that the good work already done be continued until success has been attained, for this federal project in itself would care for the unemployment problem.

Another was construction of a filtering plant for the city water system.

Still another was construction of a Memorial and Youth Center which would serve a four-fold purpose: a meeting place for veterans of World Wars I and II; a Memorial to the Veterans of the two wars; a youth center where the teenagers may go for supervised entertainment and recreation, and a place where various civic and other groups could meet.

Operation of the canning factory again was also recommended. (This has already been approved by the city commission).

A five year plan of concrete streets and sidewalks as public betterments.

Improvement in the Tourist-Trailer Park.

Local projects which would provide additional employment recommended are construction of a modern hotel, a youth center if it cannot be had as a federal project; supervised playground; cooperative to procure new industries; look into the plastic wood, wooden toys and limestone industries and also boat building; advertise resorts; city airport; burial vault and chapel at the cemetery; removal of old buildings detrimental to appearance of the city; better lighting along Lake Shore drive; plant shrubbery, extend and improve present harbor; endeavor to procure dry cleaning establishment; improve fronts of business houses on Delta avenue; Farmers' Market; promote "Buy in Gladstone" campaign; make use of old Lyric theater building.

Military honors will be accorded Green, a veteran of World War I, with August Mattson Post, American Legion, of which the deceased was a member, in charge.

Burial will be made in Fernwood cemetery.

Funeral services for Carl William Green, of Trout Lake, formerly of Gladstone, will be conducted at the Kelley funeral home this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The Rev. Clifford Peterson, pastor of the First Lutheran church, officiating.

SPEAKER TELLS NEED FOR FAITH

Rev. Harrington Gives Graduation Sermon To Class Of '44

"The first step in achieving faith is to begin, here and now, to live up to the best that we know," Rev. William Harrington told the Manistique high school graduation class in the Baccalaureate sermon Sunday night.

"You can fulfill your class motto: 'Succeed. We Can. We Must' only through the Great Essential, Faith," he declared.

There are going to be many rough places in your life, but if you have faith there is no need to fear."

Rev. Harrington, selected by the senior class to deliver their graduation sermon, chose as his topic, "The Great Essential." He based his remarks on Hebrews, 11:13, which is the story of the pilgrimage of the Israelites and the Egyptians to the Red Sea. The journey of the Israelites resulted in victory because of their faith, but the Egyptians met disaster because of their lack of faith, the speaker pointed out. "The Israelites were prepared through faith," he said.

The minister declared that a little faith is a powerful element in every one's life. Today, which is truly a day of bewilderment, chaos and blackness, we need to open the shades of our "house" and allow the light of faith to come in, he said.

"Faith is not a luxury—it is an absolute necessity in life. It makes the difference between victory and defeat," Rev. Harrington declared.

"In fact, every really constructive, worthwhile something is impossible without faith."

He pointed out that even in such a minor thing as walking, we have faith that our legs will get us there. "If faith enters into even minor things, surely we need faith in the Eternal God, the giver of life. For without faith in God we are facing an eternal blackness," he warned.

He told the graduates that faith in God is essential because without it the blows of life may overwhelm us. "Without it we do not have anchor, that staff, that security that we find in God," he said.

"But with faith, we are rich. We may be poor in a worldly sense, but spiritually we are rich in Him."

Five Pastors

Five pastors took part in the program Sunday night. In addition to the main speaker, Rev. William Harrington pronounced the invocation. Rev. Harold Martinson read the Scripture; a prayer was offered by Rev. P. S. Nestander; and Rev. William Robertson closed the program with the benediction.

Music of the program was played by the high school orchestra under the direction of Miss Margaret Johnson. Their professional march was the Grand March from the opera "Norma" by Bellini.

Following the invocation they played "Theme from the First Symphony" by Brahms and "The Glory of God in Nature" by Beethoven.

Miss Betty Golat sang a soprano solo, "O Lord Most Holy" by Franck.

Final graduation for Manistique high school's 72 graduates took place last night in the high school auditorium. Presentation of diplomas was to be made by Earl LeBrasseur, president of the board of education, and the commencement address was to be delivered by Dr. Charles L. Anspech, president of Central Michigan College of Education.

Cleveland Takes Detroit, 6 And 5; Giants Batter Brooklyn, 15-9

FOURTH INNING SWAMPS TIGERS

Uprising Nets 5 Runs; Gorsica Is Charged With Loss

Cleveland, June 12 (AP)—A five-run uprising in the fourth inning gave the Cleveland Indians a 6 to 5 triumph over the Detroit Tigers before 16,901 at the Municipal stadium tonight.

Four hurlers worked for each club with Ed Klemm receiving credit for the win and Johnny Gorsica being charged with the loss. Two-run singles by Mickey Rocco and Oris Hockett provided the big blows in the Tribe's fourth inning.

Ken Keltner led off the Indians' big inning with a single. He took second when Pat Seery, batting for Klemm, also singled after Russ Peters had fanned. Lou Boudreau walked to fill the bases and set the stage for Rocco's clutch, which sent Gorsica to the showers.

Bob Gillespie, who succeeded Gorsica, retired Roy Cullenbine but then came Hockett's single, followed up by a two-bagger by Paul O'Dea which ran the Tribe's total to five runs for the inning.

Double Play Ends It

Singles by Boudreau and Hockett, bracketing a sacrifice, had given the Indians their first run in the opening stanza. The Tigers balanced that one in the third, however, when Chuck Hostetler singled off Paul McKee, Cleveland rookie, stole second and came home on a safe hit by Joe Hoover.

Detroit pulled ahead briefly, with two runs in the visitors' half of the big fourth. Eddie Mayo drew a pass. Rudy York and Pinky Higgins both singled, and the second run scored on an infield out. Ed Klemm nipped the rally by pitching a double play ball to Bob Swift and became the winning pitcher after facing only that one batter.

The Tigers added runs in the sixth and seventh off Joe Hoving but when the game tightened up Boudreau called on Alie Reynolds, last year's strikeout king. Reynolds struck out the side in order in the eighth. Higgins, Jimmy Outlaw and Hostetler.

Hal Newhouse relieved Gillespie in the sixth, but pitched only to O'Dea before giving way to a pinch hitter. Paul (Dizzy) Trout finished.

YANKS DROP ANOTHER
Washington, June 12 (AP)—The Washington Senators smashed over a score in the 11th inning to down New York, 4 to 3, before 12,650 customers tonight.

It was the sixth straight reverse for the Yankees.

Joe Page went nine innings on the mound for the New Yorkers, yielding to Alie Donald in the tenth. Johnny Niggeling hurled the distance for the Senators.

Jake Powell slammed a hit through the infield to score the winning run in the 11th.

Second baseman George Myatt of Washington and Outfielder Bud Matheny of New York were banished from the game in the eighth inning following an altercation on the baselines.

RAIN HALTS GAME

Chicago, June 12 (AP)—Rain stopped the Chicago White Sox and St. Louis Browns after two and one-half innings today, to prolong the Chicago's annual record of not having had a midweek afternoon ball game since May 19, the Memorial Day holiday games excepted. The teams were tied, 1 to 1.

Their start delayed thirty-five minutes by one downpour, the clubs got in only a half hour's play, most of it in semi-darkness, before the rain resumed. It was the seventh postponement of the current Sox' home stand.

The Browns scored their only run in the first inning when Shortstop Jim Webb fumbled Vern

Big League Pitcher At 15 Tells How Fame Feels To Him

BY PAUL B. MASON

Cincinnati, June 11 (AP)—Joe Nuxhall who, at 15, tells you seriously that "I've been playing baseball ever since I was a kid," dropped his six-foot, 195-pound frame into a chair and fingered the Cincinnati Reds' emblem on his uniform shirt.

"Yep," he grinned, "I'm lucky. Never thought that at 15 I'd be pitching in the big time. Guess lots of kids would like to do that."

Joe, pride of nearby Hamilton, O., and youngest player ever signed in the major leagues, pitched two-thirds of a nightmare inning in a game Saturday that made history-of-sorts for the Reds, an 18-0 rout by the St. Louis Cardinals, worst National league shutout since 1906.

He gave up five passes, two singles and a wild pitch good for the Cards' final five runs, in a debut only 48 hours after graduation from junior high school.

The best of the Cards' batting order was coming up when Joe went in.

"I was nervous," he said. "Sure, I had watched 'em as they came to bat, thinking I ought to know their weakness. But I sure never expected Mr. McKee (Bill McKee, manager) to call on me."

And Joe's grin widened. "You did all right, too, boomed big and jovial Warren Giles, Reds' general manager. "All right until Stan Musial came to bat."

Here's how Joe's "big inning" had gone:

His initial pitch to George Fallon, first up, was a clean strike. Fallon carried the lanky porters to a 3-2 count, then rolled out. Mort Cooper swung at his first pitch, let three balls pass and whiffed at another before drawing ball 4. Akie Bergamo struck at two, then Joe uncorked a wild pitch that sent Cooper to second. Bergamo fouled two, then flied. Deb Garmis drew three balls, two strikes and walked. Then Musial singled.

"Guess then is when I was really nervous," Joe said. "Things just weren't going right. I walked the next three men. . . I don't know who they were."

"I see, sir," he apologized, "I don't know all their names, yet."

For the record they were Ray Sanders, Walker Cooper and Danny Litwhiler. And after that, Emil Verban singled to end Joe's trial.

Stephens' grounder after Al Zarilla and George McQuinn singled. Orval Grove, Sox mound ace, doubled in the second to drive in Webb, who had singled.

DIAMOND BALL

Revenge
The Postoffice softball team evened its score with the Daily Press Sunday, winning handily.

20-10. The PO men effectively combined timely hits with untimely Pass errors for an easy victory after the Press team had built an early lead.

The winners scored in every inning, drawing clusters of six and four runs in the fifth and seventh innings, respectively.

The summary:
Postoffice — 221 362 4—20
Daily Press — 520 002 1—10
Kittner and Martin; McCarthy and Berube.

LINEUP BOLSTERED

Two more veterans, Moose Smithwick and Job Anderson, played with the Wells DX team for the first time this season last night, and the team celebrated by winning, 8 to 6, over the Coast Guards.

Wells DX — 110 006 x—8 9 2

IVERSONS WIN 10-9

Iverson's Post Handlers nosed out White Birch, 10 to 9. Batteries were Brayak and Bittner for Iversons and Lancoir and Lancoir for White Birch.

A WHOOPER—"Seein' is believin'" three-year-old Don Dabney appears to be exclaiming at Cypress Gardens, Fla., as he looks up at his father, awed by daddy catching an eight-pound Big Mouth bass almost as large as his son.

The Sports Parade

By Ken Gunderman

For years the tightest pennant battle in the big leagues were in the National league, with the American league more often than not a breeze for the New York Yankees. The lineup is considerably changed this year, however, with the National league teams developing into a bunch of cousins for the St. Louis Cardinals while all eight teams in the American are in contending positions. As of Sunday, only four and a half games separate the leading St. Louis Browns and the cellar dwelling Washington Senators.

At the start of the season the Senators were rated as the team most likely to beat the Yankees for the American League pennant. The Detroit Tigers were picked to land deep in the second division, no better than seventh. The Senators have been somewhat disappointing to date although they still are very much in contending position, despite their present berth in the league cellar. The Tigers, on the other hand, have been the most surprising team in the circuit. The Bengals still lack hitting power, but are getting the best pitching in the league.

Michigan's Hume twins repeated their "dead heat" act in the NCAA meet at Milwaukee Saturday, winning the mile race with more than 160 yards to spare in 4:16.6. Frank Martin, Notre Dame star, was outclassed in this event by the Michigan men, but came back to win the two mile event, in which the Hume boys were not entered. Buddy Young, Illinois Negro, won the 100 and 220 and placed second in the broad jump but was scratched in the low hurdles after qualifying. Illinois won the team honors easily, followed by Notre Dame and Michigan.

The outstanding performance of the NCAA meet in Milwaukee was registered by Ken Wiesner of Marquette university, who won the high jump with a leap of six feet, 7 3-16 inches. The height was the best ever made by the young Hilltop star and he thus became the third athlete in Marquette history to win a NCAA title. Shimek, now coach of the Hilltoppers, won the two mile event in 1927 and Ralph Metcalfe, Marquette's great colored star, won both the 100 and 220 for three consecutive years, starting in 1932. Wiesner

BARK RIVER TRIMS Gladstone, 17 to 3
Gladstone. — Held in check by McIntyre for 5 innings, the Bark River baseball team went on a scoring spree in the sixth inning, winning the mile race with more than 160 yards to spare in 4:16.6. Frank Martin, Notre Dame star, was outclassed in this event by the Michigan men, but came back to win the two mile event, in which the Hume boys were not entered. Buddy Young, Illinois Negro, won the 100 and 220 and placed second in the broad jump but was scratched in the low hurdles after qualifying. Illinois won the team honors easily, followed by Notre Dame and Michigan.

Gladstone scored in the first inning when Young singled, stole second and third and came home when a play was made on Arntzen for a dropped third strike. Bark River evened the account when Douglass singled, was advanced on two singles by Larson and Bergstrom, and then scored on a wild throw from McIntyre to Young.

Bark River batted around with DeMars and Derocher each getting two bingles in the 6th. Two hits combined with 5 errors and 2 walks gave them a comfortable lead but they continued in the seventh by adding 5 more and finished up by annexing 1 in the 8th.

The local got 1 run in the 6th. Arntzen walked and was pushed along by R. LaPointe who reached first and on the ensuing play made second to allow Arntzen to tally. Young and Paine singled in the 7th, with Young scoring on Arntzen's single.

Derocher gave up 4 hits and Ben Johnson allowed 2 for Bark River.

Haglund and McGinnis officiated.

All three pitchers for Gladstone show promise of performing well on the mound and with more practice for the infielders the local fans are assured of some real baseball. Wednesday evening at 6:30 some of the old timers will be on hand to show the youngsters a few pointers. Another series is being arranged with Bark River, and the team would like to play other cities in the near locality.

AH MIE TAKES SEA GULL RACE

Jacobs' Sailboat Cops First Leg On Gust Asp Trophy

With a light south wind blowing, Dr. R. H. Banks, chairman of the E. Y. C. Racing Committee fired the starting cannon at 2:15 p. m. from the new City dock to start the first of the 1944 Sea Gull elimination races for the Gust Asp trophy which was won by John Jacobs' Ah Mie in one hour, four minutes and forty seconds for the six mile course.

Yankee, owned by Vaughn Belanger was not ready to enter the race, leaving four contestants for the event, Lorrie, owned by Elmer Owen, Carefree owned by David Welch, Ah Mie owned by John Jacobs and Suds, formerly owned by Wm. Bissell but acquired last week by Paul Menard.

All yachts were on the line for the starting gun and kept very well bunched until after rounding the first buoy. Lorrie led to this mark followed closely by Ah Mie, Lorrie, Suds and Carefree elected to split tactics to the light house buoy while Ah Mie took a port tack toward the Stonington shore and rounded the third buoy on the first leg one minute ahead of Lorrie.

On the second leg of the race the course was reversed, but Ah Mie continued in the lead. Carefree developed rudder trouble and was forced to abandon the race at the red can buoy and was finally towed in by the Coast Guard picket boat which patrolled the race.

The following is the order of the finish:
1st—Ah Mie, time 1 hr. 4 min. 40 sec.
2d—Lorrie, time 1 hr. 6 min.
3d—Suds, time 1 hr. 8 min. 50 sec.

Carefree did not finish.
The next Sea Gull race will be held Sunday, June 25th.

PITCHERS HELP DODGERS LOSE

Five Hurlers Nicked For 16 Hits Issue Nine Walks

New York, June 12 (AP)—New York battered a quintet of Brooklyn pitchers for a 15 to 9 victory, polling 16 hits and getting help from the Dodger flingers on nine walks and two hit batsmen.

Mel Ott, manager of the Giants, smacked two home runs and a double, increasing his total of extra-base blows for his 19 years with the Giants to 1,001. Rogers Hornsby holds the National league mark at 1,011.

Phil Weintraub, Giant first baseman, also punched out a pair of homers and drove in five runs. Ralph Branca, out of New York University less than a week, was the best of the Dodger flingers. He whiffed the first three Giants to face him and allowed only two hits in three and two-third innings.

Stan Bordagaray and Mickey Owen hit four-masters for the losers, both off the shoots of winning Pitch Bill Voiselle.

HONEY, ASPARAGUS IN TREE
A maple tree owned by Philip Karge of Smithville, N. J., produces both asparagus and honey. Bees have stored their sweets in a hole in the trunk, and from another hole, higher up, asparagus is growing.

A paralysis which may last for several months can be caused by crossing the legs, according to an eminent doctor.

The Roving Reporter

final call. (We will rejoin them some time later on this side—we hope.)

Of the 28 correspondents in the assault group about two-thirds had already seen action in various war theaters. The old-timers sort of gravitated together, people such as Bill Stoneman, Don Whitehead, Jack Thompson, Clark Lee, Tex O'Reilly and myself.

We conferred on when we would get the final call, conjectured on what assignments we would draw, for few of us knew what unit we would go with. And in more pensive moments we also conjectured on our chances of coming through alive.

We felt our chances were not very good. And we were not happy about it. Men like Don Whitehead and Clark Lee, who had been through the mill so long and so hotly, began to get nervous. And frankly I was the worst of the lot, and continued to be.

I began having terrible periods of depression and often would dream hideous dreams about it. All the time fear lay blackly deep upon your consciousness. It bore down on your heart like an all-consuming weight. People would talk to you and you wouldn't hear what they were saying.

The Army said they would try to give us 24 hours' notice of departure. Actually the call came at 9 o'clock one morning and we were ordered to be at a certain place with full field kit at 10:30. We threw our stuff together. Some of us went away and left hotel rooms still running up bills. Many had dates that night but did not dare to phone and call them off.

As we arrived one by one at the appointed place we looked both knowingly and sheepishly at each other. The Army continued to tell us that this was just another exercise, but we knew inside ourselves that this was not.

Bill Stoneman, who has been wounded once, never shows the slightest concern about these things. Whether he feels any concern or not I do not know. Bill has a humorous, sardonic manner. While we were waiting for the departure into the unknown, he took a pencil and notebook as though starting to interview me.

"Tell me, Mr. Pyle, how does it feel to be an assault correspondent?"

"Being a man of few words, I said, 'it feels awful.'"

When everybody was ready our luggage went into a truck and we went into jeeps. I can't tell you where we boarded the ship, of course, but I can say I personally rode two days in a jeep and made the last 30 miles on a 2 1/2 ton truck.

The first night we spent together at an assembly area, an Army tent camp. There we drew our final battle kit—such things as clothing impregnated against gas attack, a shovel to dig foxholes, seasickness capsules, a carton of cigarettes, a medical kit, cations and one funny little item which I can't mention but which I use for many purposes. We also drew three blankets just for the night, since our bedrolls had gone on ahead.

The weather was cold and three blankets were not enough. I hardly slept at all. When we awakened early the next morning, Jack Thompson said, "that's the coldest night I have ever spent."

Don Whitehead said, "It's just as miserable as it always was."

You see, we had all been living comfortably in hotels or apartments for the last few weeks. We had got a little soft, and here we were again starting back to the old horrible life we had known for so long—sleeping on the ground, only cold water, rations, foxholes and dirt. We were off to war again.

Norway's chief contribution to the United Nations cause has been the services of her merchant marine—about 1,000 ships.

CANNING SUGAR RULES REVISED

Local Board Can Issue Up To 20 Pounds Per Person

Authorization has been granted to the local rationing board to allocate the maximum allowance of 20 pounds of sugar for canning purposes per person at one time, rather than in two periods, James E. Anderson, chief clerk, announced yesterday.

Several weeks ago the Office of Price Administration announced that canning sugar would be allocated to applicants in two periods, with a maximum of 10 pounds per person to be allocated in each period.

Upper peninsula board clerks, meeting at the district office here last month, protested the two-period plan, contending that the issuance of canning sugar virtually swamps the board during the summer months. It was urged that the two-period plan would double the heavy volume of work.

The matter was referred to the regional OPA office by the upper peninsula district office and authorization was granted to local boards in the upper peninsula to distribute the full 20 pounds per person at one time, upon proper application.

Not Sugar Stamp No. 37. Pending the regional officer's approval of the request, the applications for canning sugar received here during the past several weeks have been held in abeyance. The certificates for the approved applications will now be issued as rapidly as they can be handled at the local office, it was indicated.

Application for canning sugar must be made on proper forms available at the ration board office and in local stores. The No. 37 spare stamp in ration book four must accompany each application. This stamp must be pasted on the form in the proper location.

It is emphasized that the ration stamp used for canning sugar applications is not sugar stamp No. 37, but spare stamp 37. No. 37 sugar stamp has not been validated. Numerous applications have been received at the local ration board with sugar stamp No. 37 affixed to the application. In each case it is necessary to return the application.

Sugar stamp No. 40 has also been validated for canning sugar and may be used at any time for five pounds of sugar for canning use without application to the local rationing board. Spare stamp No. 37 is for canning sugar in excess of five pounds per person provided in sugar stamp No. 40.

Anderson reported yesterday that the office schedule of the local rationing board is 8 a. m. to 4:45 p. m. daily, except Wednesday, when the office is closed at noon to permit clerks to catch up on accumulated work.

Three Qualify As Railroad Engineers

Three Escanaba firemen of the Chicago and North Western railroad passed their examinations for locomotive engineers in Chicago last week, it has been learned.

The are Robert O'Donnell, Gilbert Henderson and Alfred Ohman. Ohman has 24 years of service as a railroad employee and O'Donnell and Henderson each has 22 years of service. They now are qualified for throttle positions.

The traditional "Ahoy!" of the sea was once the battle cry of the Vikings.

Worry Clinic

With Case Records Of A Psychologist

BY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE C-268; Clark K., aged 26 is a brilliant engineer.

"I'm engaged to a wonderful girl, but she belongs to a small religious sect that is somewhat fanatical," he spoke glumly.

"I have been brought up a Lutheran. Neither of us wishes to give up our respective church affiliations.

"Last week I gave her an engagement ring. She said she wished to go East to visit her parents for a month.

"But now she keeps writing saying that her parents don't want her to marry out of her religion. Her father and mother and aunt and all the relatives belong to this little sect, and apparently are putting on the pressure to break up our contemplated marriage.

"What should I do? Shall I give her up or would you advise that I join her church?"

DIAGNOSIS
"I told Clark to do neither, at least for the next fortnight, but to keep on writing, her sweet, newly letters liberally interspersed with compliments and reminders of their theater or dinner dates of the past, but with the present complaint that he gets little pleasure out of such amusements now that she is gone.

Meanwhile, however, he should ignore all her questions pertaining to religion, and never attempt to defend his side of the argument.

Then when her parents and other relatives attack him, he will have no defender. Because of the tendency of human beings to side with the downtrodden or underdog, his sweetheart will automatically come to his rescue.

How to Handle In-Laws
If Clark were to argue in his own defense, his girl friend might feel impelled to side with her parents, for Clark has some very strong arguments and is a clever speaker.

But as long as he refrains from

MESSER GIVES INSPIRING TALK

"Men Wanted" Is Subject Of Kiwanis Club Address

"Men Wanted" was the subject of an inspiring address delivered by Rev. C. B. Messer, pastor of the Seventh Day Adventist church, at the meeting of the Kiwanis club yesterday noon.

"We are living in an age of superlatives," Reverend Messer said, in opening his talk. "This is the greatest war of all time, this is the greatest invasion, and so forth, but the greatest want of today is the want for men of true greatness."

Reverend Messer pointed out that we are now living in times of great stress, and he expressed the hope that, like in the past, the current crisis would either reveal or develop great men to meet the problems that face the nation and the world.

"We need men of truthfulness and honesty," the speaker continued. "We need men who will be honest because honesty is the right thing. We need men who will measure success not in terms of fame and money but in a good name and service to humanity."

Reverend Messer said there is also a great want for men who realize that every right carries a duty and every privilege a responsibility. The world is looking for men who are unprejudiced and unbiased, who can see far in the future and can think things through, discerning men who fear entering the debate, the arguments will all come from one side. As soon as his sweetheart then becomes his champion, she will begin to feel more akin to him.

Remember the psychological axiom to the effect that if you go through the proper motions, you'll soon begin to feel the corresponding emotions?

Well, that principle will immediately begin to operate on Clark's girl friend when she begins to use his arguments against her parents.

The more she states them, the more she'll begin to believe them. And the more she is compelled to defend her choice of a mate, the more her possessiveness will develop. Besides, her pride is somewhat at stake for having originally chosen Clark.

And a modern intelligent girl who has a job and who has been on her own for a year or more, will soon begin to feel inhibited and unduly confined when she again goes home to live under mamma's roof and regulations.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long 3c stamped, addressed envelope and a dime to cover typing or printing costs when you seek personal advice or one of his psychological charts.)

Approved by OPA, WFA and WTB. Paid for by Industry

God and respect human rights, the speaker concluded.

In the discussion of the Kiwanis club's youth center project, Probate Judge William J. Miller declared that the juvenile delinquency problem is not the concern of the churches and civic organizations alone, but that of every individual. He said he favored the establishment of a youth center in Escanaba if it is designed to be something more than "round-up or rendezvous for entertainment alone." Such a project, he asserted, should be constructive in nature so that it will actually uphold the character of the boys and girls of the community.
